Energy cost up – Telecom costs down

As we all brace ourselves for the current burst in energy costs across the board it is more important than ever to ensure we are operating in the most efficient manner possible.

One area often overlooked where it is relatively easy to implement a positive change is a review of telecom costs. With operations becoming more integrated, your connections with suppliers, customers, associates and family members creates a growing demand for low-cost & reliable service. To meet this demand, it is best to be associated with an organization that understands your needs.

Through Flowers Canada (Ontario) Inc., we have built such an organization with FFV-Tel, a not-for-profit entity, designed to meet your needs through a highly successful partnership with SelectCom.

The program is well-established with hundreds of existing agricultural customers. SelectCom provides a most reliable service at a cost that makes a difference to your bottom line.

To illustrate this further, it is possible, depending on your existing plan, to move your long-distance, cellular long-distance, toll free, conference calling and international calls in a one-step process. The results, based on individual calling patterns and scope of your business, can see savings in the hundreds and even thousands of dollars on an annual basis. An added bonus is a special rate for plan members when calling other plan members.
